

Acupuncture face lift

Acupuncture uses acupuncture points, located all over the body to stimulate the body's own energy. Each point has specific purpose, but can also have complex interactions when used together. In acupuncture, the main idea is that blockages of chi energy in the body can cause illnesses or imbalances. The application of acupuncture needles can help free the body of those blockages and let the chi energy flow freely bringing health and wellness back.

During acupuncture face lift, the insertion of needles into the facial skin stimulates natural collagen production, which can firm the skin. The treatment also consists of stimulating chosen meridian points on the body, neck and face depending on individual's body conditions, in turn, tonify and energize the skin's underlying tissue. The circulation is also enhanced.

Acupuncture face lift results include better muscle tone and jaw line definition, a decrease in lines and wrinkles after two or three treatment. The pores will tighten and a more even color and tone should be evident across the face.

An acupuncture face lift is a painless alternative that has no side effects and is very safe with no real possibilities of complications. The recovery time created by a surgical facelift can be more than two weeks, while an acupuncture face lift has no recovery period.

The benefits of acupuncture face lift:

- No danger of infection.
- No recovery period.
- Almost Painless.
- No time off work.
- Safe alternative form surgical lift.
- Wrinkles correction and prevention.

Patients who are willing to receive the acupuncture face lift can expect to see toning and tightening of the facial and neck muscles and skin. With the whole body approach, they can also experience clearer skin, clearer thought processes, increased energy and even healthier body. The acupuncture face lift can actually be an age reversing and health restorative process if it's done at maintenance basis.

As everyone one knows the face has many muscles. With the acupuncture needles, the acupuncturist relaxes those muscles and stimulates them. The result is higher production of collagen and more tone in the face.
